I'm from Vanuatu, where our people and our land shape everything we do.

Our hands carry our ancestral knowledge.

Our hearts beat with the islands.

Vanuatu Made isn't just about what we do,
it's about who we are.

It's our story.

Our culture.

Our way of life.

When you buy local,
you support real people,

future generations.

This is where I'm from.

This is who I am.

JOURNEY OF A MARK

When a shopper sees the Vanuatu Made mark, they know something important: the product in their hands was born from island soil, island waters, and island ingenuity.

It is not a generic souvenir or an anonymous import. It is the work of a Vanuatu producer—an artisan weaving pandanus mats, a farmer fermenting cocoa, a family distilling oil from tamanu nuts.

The brand began as a government initiative, but it has grown into much more: a community of makers united by pride in their country and confidence in their craft.

The Department of Industry set out to lift the visibility of local businesses, and in the process created a symbol that consumers trust.

Each product that carries the mark has passed through a certification process, ensuring that its origin is truly Vanuatu. This makes the label a gateway to the nation's story—its languages, its resilience, and its resourcefulness.

“Vanuatu Made is not just about things; it is about people and place.”

The initiative has expanded beyond certification to include outlets in Port Vila and Brisbane, and promotional campaigns such as Vanuatu Made Week. Today, over a hundred producers are certified, offering everything from kava beverages to handicrafts and skincare.

Buyers choose Vanuatu Made because they know every sale sustains local livelihoods, keeps traditional skills alive, and encourages sustainable, small-scale production.

Vanuatu Made is, in the end, a promise: that what is inside the package carries the authenticity of a nation.

Vanuatu is a scattering of green islands in the blue Pacific. Eighty-three islands that form a loose Y-shape across the ocean, with volcanoes smoking, reefs shimmering, and waterfalls tumbling down rainforest cliffs.

But behind this ruggedly enchanting geography lies something deeper: a nation with a network of living traditions and a unique spirit of resilience.

Vanuatu's people speak more than a hundred indigenous languages, alongside English, French, and Bislama. This linguistic richness reflects a social fabric built on diversity, woven together by shared kastoms, communal ties, and a deep respect for the land.

For buyers and partners, Vanuatu offers more than products—it offers authenticity shaped by place. Coffee beans ripen in volcanic soils; coconuts grow fat on salt breezes; pandanus and tamanu, traditional ingredients crafted into goods with both beauty and function. Every item carries the taste, scent, and touch of its origin: our tropical island home — Vanuatu.

VANUATU DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRY

Behind every Vanuatu Made product stands the Department of Industry (DoI), a government agency tasked with developing the nation's manufacturing and value-added industries.

DoI's mandate ranges from issuing industrial permits to helping businesses access duty exemptions and export markets. Yet the heart of its work lies in supporting micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs)—the farmers, artisans, and entrepreneurs who are shaping new industries from old traditions.

The Department is organised into divisions that cover both administration and sector-specific support, with 6 provincial offices from TORBA to TAFEA Provinces. This means policy crafted in Port Vila reaches the producers working far from the capital.

In recent years, DoI has guided initiatives like the National Industrial Development Strategy, which sketched out bold programmes such as Ignite Innovation and Vanuatu as a Brand. These programmes weren't abstract policies—they laid the foundation for platforms like the Vanuatu Made catalogue you are holding.

The Department also understands the practical challenges of working with hundreds of small producers. That is why it emphasises clear communication, quality standards, and streamlined approvals, ensuring that businesses can grow without being overwhelmed by bureaucracy.

Flipping through this catalogue, you are seeing the results of DoI's vision: a government that works hand in hand with its producers to build confidence, visibility, and pride in the products of Vanuatu.

ABOUT 83 ISLANDS DISTILLERY

83 Islands Distillery is a boutique spirits producer based in Vanuatu, crafting premium small-batch rums, gins, and liqueurs that celebrate the natural richness and tropical character of the archipelago. Inspired by the 83 islands that make up the nation, each bottle is infused with local ingredients, artisan methods, and a dedication to quality. The distillery works closely with local farmers and relies on Vanuatu's unique South Pacific climate to shape the flavour and depth of its spirits. Its limited-edition releases, from white and aged rums to vibrant gins and tropical liqueurs, are available locally and gaining recognition on the global stage.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

A key milestone in the evolution of 83 Islands Distillery has been the shift from molasses-based rum to using fresh sugarcane juice, sourced directly from small farms around Efate. By creating new demand for locally grown cane, the distillery has played a leading role in developing interest in sugarcane cultivation in Vanuatu. This supports rural communities, strengthens local supply chains, and brings a true sense of terroir to its spirits.

ABOUT ADE'S PRODUCTS

Ades Aloe Vera & Coconut Oil began in 2014, not as a business, but as a homemade remedy used in a provincial clinic in Sanma to treat diabetic ulcers. Due to its effectiveness, production continued on a small scale for clinic clients. The product helps with acne, sores, skin conditions, and bites from animals, insects, and fish. In 2018, the idea of turning it into a formal business began to take shape, with support from the Department of Industry for labelling, packaging, and logo design. A new logo was registered with VanIPO in 2022. Ade, the founder, is a trained nurse through the Medical Assistance Program in Fiji and combines her medical background with traditional knowledge to create this product. She sources coconut oil from a certified coconut plantation (certified by Quality Solutions) and promotes the product through Facebook and regular participation in national trade shows.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

The next product in development is an aloe vera-based sanitizer. There is strong demand because it works as a sanitizer, antiseptic, and antibacterial agent, while also being moisturizing.

ABOUT EAU DES ILES

Founded in Vanuatu and inspired by the South Pacific, Eau des Iles (“water of the islands”) is a niche perfumery crafting island-luxe scents for body and home. Our fragrances draw on the places we live and love—salt-kissed ocean air, white pamplemousse, ylang, sandalwood—translated through wild-harvested botanical oils and contemporary perfumery.

Proudly made in Vanuatu (with select production in Fiji), our collection spans perfumes/EDT alongside interior scents such as candles and reed diffusers. Each piece is designed for the modern aesthete: elegant, uplifting, and rooted in island ritual—scents that create a feeling of ease and belonging wherever you are.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

Since our early launches in 2016, Eau des Iles has grown through word-of-mouth, regional stockists, and showcases that celebrate Pacific craft and ingredients. Today, we continue to build a house that feels both refined and relaxed—perfume as a small daily ceremony, carried on the trade winds.

ABOUT MAGIC ROOTS

Tahun Kava is a fast-growing kava exporter based in Santo, with customers across the globe. By 2025, she has built an international customer base and pioneered a range of innovative, value-added kava products—including kava lollies, cosmetic creams, and kava chocolate. Each product was developed in close collaboration with her customers, using their feedback to refine and improve her offerings.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

In 2025, Sergine rebranded her product line as Magic Roots and secured distribution for her kava chocolate at Au Bon March in Port Vila, where sales are steadily growing. She also began receiving orders for her kava lollies from New Caledonia. That same year, she showcased her products at Fine Food Australia, where they received excellent feedback—tapping into a booming market for kava-based innovations.

ABOUT MALO NONI

Malo Noni started as a small rural enterprise with just a 5L fermentation bucket and has grown to producing 1,000L tanks of high-quality organic noni juice. The business not only promotes noni as a natural remedy for diabetes and other non-communicable diseases, but also raises awareness about healthy lifestyles for both body and mind. By distributing free seedlings and buying noni directly from local farmers in Malo, the company ensures that income flows back into the community. With perseverance, Malo Noni has shown that a rural business can succeed in the local market and even aim for export opportunities.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

Malo Noni is now part of the Island to Global initiative, supporting five first-time exporters to secure international orders. As part of this journey, the business is participating in major trade shows such as Fine Foods Australia, organized by Pacific Trade & Invest. Through customer and buyer feedback, Malo Noni has also developed a new bottling design to better meet export market standards.

ABOUT ORGANIC TASTE VANUATU

Eric and his wife started the business in 2022. As a pastor traveling across Ambrym, Santo, Banks, and Malekula, Eric witnessed firsthand the struggles of widows, orphans, and farming communities. Despite these challenges, he noticed that everyone had coconuts—but relied heavily on copra sales, where prices fluctuate unpredictably. Determined to support farmers, he began experimenting with coconut cream to create jam and other value-added products. He invested time in research and sought feedback from friends and online networks to refine his recipes. Leveraging his pastoral connections, Eric built strong relationships with store owners to ensure the products reached communities across the islands. Today, his coconut products are widely distributed, though production is still limited by an inadequate workspace. His next goal is to establish a small factory to expand capacity and create better opportunities for local farmers.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

The vision is to expand production to East Santo, where coconuts are abundant, and build a business that gives back to the community. Beyond jam and lollies, the goal is to create jobs and explore the many uses of coconut.

ABOUT PACIFIC SANTO LTD

Pacific Santo Limited was established in 2018, engaging in both export and farming activities. The company partners with several rural communities in Santo and the outer islands, though its origins are in Middle Bush, Santo. The Pacific Santo farm produces kava with some of the highest kavalactone levels recorded, as researched by Dr. Vincent Lebot (Buveurs de Kava). The company supplies kava to markets across Europe, Australia, New Zealand, Kiribati, Canada, and the USA, offering products in root, chips, powder, and instant form.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

The company plans to establish a kava processing factory in Middle Bush, within the heart of the kava-growing area. The site is being developed with essential infrastructure, including a reliable water supply and the first flush toilets in the area. Pacific Santo is also working to improve "last-mile" access for farmers and to build a traditional-style village in Middle Bush, following the requests and guidance of local chiefs and the wider community.

Established in 2021 during COVID, the company has grown steadily into a small manufacturing operation with three full-time staff, all young women in their first jobs. With a production capacity of 200 pillows per week and a strong presence on social media, Piloblong is proud to design products that resonate with local customers and are distributed in Port Vila and across the country.

Saranata Maluku Industry (SMI), established in 2023, is a proudly Ni Vanuatu company rooted in the traditions of the Nasara Clans from North and West Ambae. It was created to promote the premium Melomelo Maluku kava variety, a unique Island Original Kava with deep cultural and community value. Operating from Bladiniere Estate, Stage 2 in Port Vila, the company processes high quality Melomelo kava roots into fine powder. This initiative supports sustainable livelihoods across Ambae communities. Saranata Maluku is fully registered and committed to delivering authentic, traditionally rich kava with unique natural taste and appreciable effect to the world.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

After its creation, Saranata Maluku Industry has experienced many challenges from natural and human disasters such as tropical cyclones, liquidation of Air Vanuatu, the 7.3 magnitude earthquake, and financial difficulties due to lack of assistance. Despite these challenges, Saranata Maluku Industry managed to break through with its kava export to Australia in 2024 and 2025.

ABOUT ROJO'S PRODUCTS

Rojo's Products is a small business based on the remote west coast of Santo, producing pure wild honey. Founded in 2023 by Richard Rojo after training with the Vanuatu Skills Partnership, the business focuses on harvesting honey from wild colonies deep in the bush—no boxes, no feeding, just natural, unprocessed honey. The result is a product with a distinct flavour and natural health benefits, shaped by the untouched environment it comes from. Currently sold in Santo, Rojo's is now seeking distribution in Port Vila.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

After completing his training, Richard took a train-the-trainer approach—sharing his skills with other farmers in his community. He taught them how to locate, harvest, and sieve wild honey using traditional, sustainable methods. Rojo's now sources honey from these trained harvesters, creating local income opportunities while increasing the business's ability to scale. When you buy Rojo's honey, you're supporting an entire network of harvesters—not just one producer.

ABOUT SANMA CREATIVE HUB

The Sanma Creative Industries Community Company (SCICC) is the first community-owned company registered under the VFSC in Sanma Province. It brings together the Yumitu Craft Association, Limabulu Association, and Posahe Association in Luganville and Malo to produce high-quality headwear, garments, and textiles Through its member associations—and with support from the Sanma Skills Centre and the Vanuatu Skills Partnership—SCICC coordinates production, strengthens quality standards, and connects artisans to growing domestic and international markets.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

In 2024, a group of mamas travelled to Darwin for training, where five of them joined a weaving skills exchange with Aboriginal artisans. This exchange introduced new pandanus varieties, weaving techniques, and approaches to product design and marketing, helping expand their creative capacity. A key challenge for SCICC is the absence of a dedicated production house. Establishing a separate handicraft centre where artisans can weave, collaborate, and sell together is a pressing need. We're engaging Sanma Provincial Council.

ABOUT SLY PRODUCTS

Sly Products is a chocolate and virgin oil processing business that sources raw materials directly from farmers in Sanma Province, working closely with them to develop and market value-added products. Established in 2018, the business initially focused on sampling, testing, and market research. With support from the Department of Industry, Sly Products secured funding to sustain operations, purchase new equipment, and increase production capacity. The Department also provided assistance with packaging and labelling, and the business now manages its own branding and labelling in-house.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

Demand for Sly Products has grown rapidly, and production is currently unable to keep pace with strong local customer demand. To respond, the company is focused on expanding production capacity. Plans include investing in new machinery—such as equipment to increase virgin oil production and a milk squeezer to boost overall output—as well as saving towards the construction of a small factory that will centralize all product lines under one roof.

ABOUT TOUSONG & CO AELAN CREATIONS

Tousong & Co, also known as Aelan Creations, is a proudly Ni-Vanuatu handicraft business creating decorative wall pieces, baskets, and home accessories made from locally sourced pandanus. Each piece showcases traditional weaving techniques with a modern aesthetic, reflecting the rich cultural identity of Vanuatu.

We use traditional weaving knowledge to create innovative products such as mirrors, light shades, wall decorations, laundry baskets, fruit bowls, trays, table runners, baskets, and jewelry. Beyond making a living from our talents and skills, we are committed to passing this knowledge on to the next generation, ensuring that both culture and craftsmanship continue to thrive.

INITIATIVES & PLANS

Featured in the “Beyond the Pandemic” exhibition and continues to promote cultural heritage through innovative design using natural, sustainable materials. We are now beginning to rebuild our handicraft house, which was destroyed by the twin cyclones, restoring a space for artisans to collaborate and promote.
